Bosco

We have five beautiful colours available – Natural (clear finish), Biscotti (lightly white washed), Classico (mid chestnut brown), Morello (black coffee stain) and Bosco (rustic light brown). Every piece of timber has a unique natural signature with its colour tones and grain characteristics, as individual as a fingerprint. Exceptionally attractive wide format 189mm boards show the grain to perfection, unlike the narrow widths used in multi-strip planks. Perfect for every interior, casual or formal, from stylish apartments to beach-side homes. The warmth of an ECODURE Oak Floor will bring years of pleasure.

For centuries wood has been the favoured material for flooring. ECODURE Oak is continuing the tradition in New Zealand homes with a range of beautifully crafted Engineered Oak flooring. We work closely with New Zealand's leading home building companies, architects, developers, designers and countless home-owners.

quality

We are often asked what the difference is between French, American or European oak? These are simply common names for different family members of the Quercus (or oak genus), not an indicator of quality. ECODURE Oak is a selected premium grade oak which has almost no knots when compared to lesser oak grades. The lovely variation of natural grains and colours are achieved by enhancing with a wash or factory applied stains, or leaving the natural colour as is. Our 15mm engineered boards have a super thick 4mm of European Oak applied on an 11mm plank, giving an impressive 15mm plank depth. In fact, engineered oak is superior in durability to solid oak, as the multidirectional construction counteracts the effects of humidity on natural wood, allowing each board to expand and contract without warping or cupping. Solid boards are far more susceptible to warping along the natural grain lines of the plank.

Do you or a family member suffer from dust or pet allergies? Closely fitted UNICLIC boards leave almost no space for dust mites or pet dander to linger.

A quick swish with a microfibre dust-mop removes dust in moments.

Take the worry out of a timber floor by specifying an ECODURE pre-finished Oak Floor, there will be no surprises, you will be able to see the finished colour and quality even before the floor has been installed.

Flooring may be laid either floated over an underlay or directly glued to particle board, plywood or professionally sealed and cured concrete.

Our products come pre-finished with seven layers of eco-friendly water-based matt polyurethane. This includes two layers of Treffert's world leading anti-scratch technology. There is no sanding or polyurethaning on site.

Note: The colours and photographs in this brochure are an indication only. Oak is a natural product and subject to variations in appearance.

value for money

Ask us for a quote and be pleasantly surprised at how cost effective ECODURE Oak is compared with other wide plank engineered or solid hardwood floors.

environmental

ECODURE Oak floors are manufactured to the highest environmental standards. The processes and products are solvent and toxin-free, meeting the demanding E0 European standard. Wood floors, especially floated floors on insulating underlay, have excellent insulating properties reducing heat lost through the floor.
